

1 Room Service

In Judith and Dana Lance's swank new Los Angeles design shop, Dana John, a 1960s Italian chandelier is likely to end up as a floor lamp. The couple also stock treasures such as aluminum klismos chairs, and pottery and photographs by L.A. artists. At 302 N. Martel Ave. Call 323-965-0400.

2 Street Fare

More than 30 years ago, Ed Ruscha mounted a camera on the back of his pickup and documented every storefront on Hollywood Boulevard. Last year he went back. The result, Then & Now: Ed Ruscha Hollywood Boulevard 1973-2004 (Steidl, $175), is a glorious record of L.A.'s changing retail landscape and an artist's sustained vision.

3 Picture Perfect

No photographer captured the modernist California ideal better than Julius Shulman. The Getty Center celebrates the acquisition of his archives with a show of both his iconic and his lesser-known works. San Diego Stadium, 1967. Through January 22. At 1200 Getty Center Dr. Call 310-440-7300; getty.edu.

4 Bronx Tale

Photos by students in the South Bronx, part of a program by the International Center of Photography, will be auctioned as a fundraiser on October 24. Annie Leibovitz has curated the exhibition, and Larson-Juhl has donated custom frames. Additional prints are also for sale. Call 212-903-3873; events.icp.org/events/thecity.

